—Now, gentlemen, said Sheridan to his guests, as the ladies left the room, let us understand each other. Are we to drink like men or beasts? —A preacher, whose custom it was to indulge in very long sermons, exchanged with one who preached short ones. At about the usual time for dismissing the audience began to go out, until nearly all had left, when the sexton, who had stood it as long as he could, walked up to the pulpit stairs, and said to the preacher in a whisper, When you get through, lock up, and leave the key at my house next to the church. It was during the Presidential campaign which resulted in the election of Buchanan, that the writer of the appended sketch, in company with three other politicians, rode from Paducah to Boston, Ky., in a hack. They were bound for one of the old-fashioned barbecues, and he tells what happened on the way thus:			Two Hundred Thousand Dollars				Country Markets and Farmers supplied at Wholesale prices.
The joking Judge M. was one of the party, and the bottles that peeped out from the basket under the seat seemed to improve the sparkle of his wit, the flavor of his jokes, and the music of his laugh, until the happy contagion even reached the driver.			In Losses,				The Invention patent Butter Pail is the very best thing of the kind in use for keeping Butter, Lard, &c., perfectly fresh.
Our fun was at its highest when, turning a curve in the road, we saw, down its hot, dusty stretch, a solitary ox cart, with its owner perched upon what proved to be bags of corn. As a kind of advance guard, a great, ugly, bridle dog came trotting along in advance, and attracted by our noise, he threw himself in an attitude of defense, determined to dispute our advance. With his savage growl, red eyes and erect bristles, he indeed presented a formidable appearance. Judge M. could not let such an opportunity for a practical joke pass. Said he:			and several others equally sound and reliable.				CASE AND EXAMINE the different styles of Tubs and Pails
I'll let the drinks for the day that I can run that dog off the road.			These Companies, since we have represented them, have paid, through us, more than				made at this establishment. East Report, June 1st, 1871.
Stopping our hack, he got out, and threw the skirts of his swallow-tailed coat over his shoulders, stuck his old slouch hat on the back of his head, and going down on all fours, he scampered toward the dog with the most frightful yell, reminding one of the fable of the ass in the lion's skin. This was too much for the dog, and howling with fright, he took to the brush. The oxen also saw the fearful monster coming down the road, and with one wild yell they took to the brush, with their tails standing straight out behind. Away they went, with wheels bouncing in the air, bags of corn bursting open, and spilling their contents in a continuous drizzle. Whoa, Blaze! Whoa, Ball! O, Lordy, what shall I do? came from the frightened man on the cart, as he was bounding from side to side, now grabbing a cart pole, then catching at a bag of corn as it went over the side.			Carpenters AND Masons' TOOLS.				THE CLIFF DALE HOUSE,
This kind of performance couldn't last long without a change for better or worse, as the oxen went tearing down the steep bank of a little creek and overturned everything in the water, about waist deep. One ox getting loose, went up the opposite bank and soon disappeared, while the other lowered down, plodding leisurely as we came up to the scene of disaster. There stood the poor man in water to his waist, his wagon overturned, and half his corn soaking in the water, while the other half was scattered in the woods. He looked scared and pitiful, and said;			EACH CORD, CLOTHES LINENS, AND LATHE TWINE.				one-half mile from Manchester Depot, with one hundred acres of good land, a good supply of timber, water, and stone, thousand square yards of land, a fine house, and a stable, and a barn for a several years. It was a splendid success, that joke, and there stood the judge holding on to a sprawling and laughing till the tears ran down his cheeks.			The Celebrated U. S. Standard Measuring Rods.				GEO. W. UTLEY,
We took up a subscription for the poor fellow. The judge headed the list with an amount nearly covering the damages, and we added to it until we left the man in thankfulness that he had sold his corn so well. At the barbecue the judge bet all his money on a little horse race, and lost, and from that, and the effects of his drinks at our expense, we had to carry him back on a bare door. On his way home he insisted upon standing on his head.			A large lot of CROCKERY AND GLASSWARE.				Cliff Dale House, East Manchester, Vt., First Month, Dec. 1st, 1871.
